

To Whom It May Concern,

I am pleased to provide this letter of recommendation for Brian Cabrera, who worked as a Database Analyst on my team at Soboba Casino Resort.

Brian supported many aspects of our database operations, including promotions, reporting, player communications, operational requests, and cross-departmental initiatives. In his role, he worked closely with Marketing, Player Development, and Information Technology to help ensure that projects and day-to-day business needs were completed accurately and on time.

What stood out most to me was Brian's technical aptitude and passion for learning. He has a strong interest in programming and software development, particularly with Python, and consistently looked for opportunities to expand his technical knowledge. He was often willing to take on complex challenges, work through problems, and learn new skills that would help both himself and the organization.

Brian also demonstrated strong analytical thinking. He was able to understand technical concepts quickly and apply them to real-world business situations. Whether supporting a promotion, troubleshooting an issue, or helping improve a process, he approached problems with curiosity and a desire to find practical solutions.

Like many professionals, Brian had opportunities for growth throughout his time with our team. What I appreciated was his willingness to accept feedback and continue developing both personally and professionally. He showed a genuine interest in improving his skills and broadening his understanding of the business, which allowed him to make meaningful contributions to our department.

I believe Brian would be well suited for an organization looking for someone with a solid technical foundation, strong programming potential, and a desire to continue learning and growing. I appreciate the effort he put forth while working on my team and wish him success in his future endeavors.

Please feel free to contact me if you have any questions.

Sincerely,

Darryl Heath
